

The Perceptual Revolution

Part 3

All Fantasy

Sofie-Alice approached the door of Pennyrose Cottage thinking of her grandfather

“would he be up or not yet? He should be; I do hope he is feeling better, and coming out of his depression...see what I can do for him...”.

She opens the door with a key she has and goes inside, to feel the warmth and notice the stale smell of sleep in the place.

Sofie enters Georgian’s bedroom to find him still in bed. She approaches him. She stops as he appears to be dead. She leans over him and finds no breath no pulse just still and cold.

His eyes open

what are you doing here he asks

I was worried about you so I came to see if you are alright

thank you he says and they hug each other